This article analyzes the results of a sociological survey of respondents regarding the establishment of deputy control over the execution of the local budget. Based on the results of the research, the author developed suggestions and recommendations along with reviews. The diagrams for the study obtained in the article are also attached. The results of this study also shed light on what efficiency can be achieved.

Keywords: budget, local budget, deputy control, budgetary organization, trust funds, research sociologist.

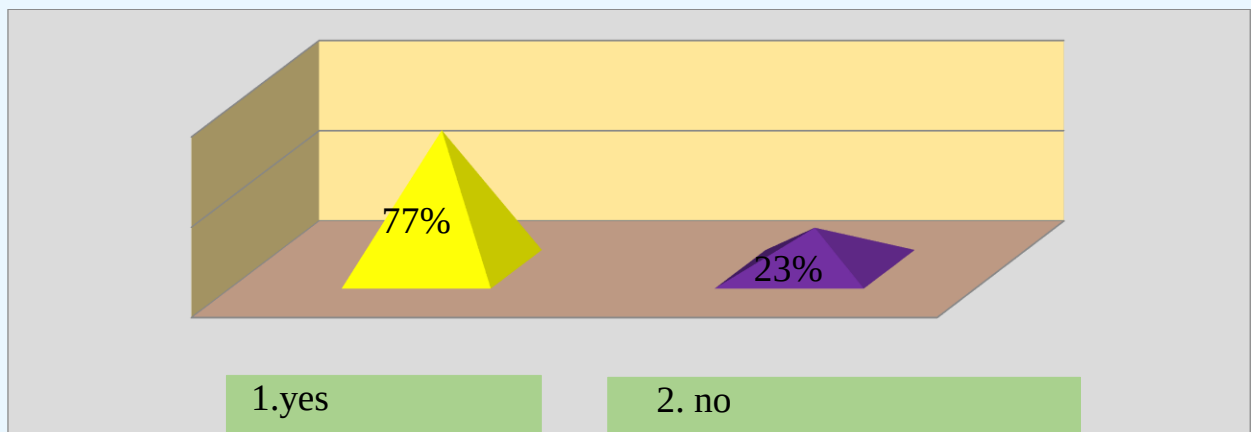

As we know today, the expenditure of local budget funds and also the use of these funds in its place are important in ensuring the well-being of the population. From this point of view, we will try to analyze the results of the study conducted in this article. The number of respondents who participated in the sociological survey is 1100. If the respondents are first touched on the age and gender categories, then the general respondents' 54% are male and 46% are female..

1-fig. Your gender

In our opinion, these gender indicators serve as the basis for research. Because, although the percentage of men is 54%, the representativeness of the results is ensured. Because, organizations engaged in issues of budget distribution also have a high level of male greeting within the range of gender indicators. From this point of view, these percentages can be considered sufficient for the results of the study. Age indicators are also important in sociological research. Because, within the framework of the topic, the importance of age is important that respondents of some age can provide sufficient information on the problem, while those of some age may not be able to provide information at a sufficient level. Therefore, we also paid special attention to the age category of respondents. The highest number of respondents was 39% aged 35-44. This in turn is considered a young person who can well analyze social and political processes in society, representing middle-aged people. At the same time, 30-34-year-olds accounted for 35%. In this case, both age indicators represent the middle age period, and citizens of this age are counted as folds, which are characteristic of political mobility, while being economically mobile active. It seems to us that the respondents in this age indicator expressed the unbiased and clear opinions that we need. In our next question, "Do you have information about political parties and their activities" in order to determine the literacy of the population regarding the activities of Deputies? when we ask the question " yes, 77% of respondents have defined the answer option that says Yes, that is, I am aware, and 23% have not, I am not aware of the answer option.

2-fig. Do you have information about political parties and their activities?

According to the results of this question, along with the fact that most respondents have information about the activities of political parties, we can see that party activities are not important for 23% of our respondents. This is also important in turn. That is, a large part of my respondents are not at a high level interested in the political processes in our society, despite their higher education. Through our next question, we tried to find out the opinion of respondents about the concept of a deputy. In this, "can you explain the concept of a deputy"? to our appeal, 66% of respondents responded "Yes", 11% said "No", the remaining 18% struggled to respond, and 5% gave different definitions to the deputy lunch. Hence, the concept of deputy is understood and correctly interpreted by most respondents. But in part, the respondents reacted as if this concept was irrelevant to them. It can also be considered that there are issues of dissatisfaction with the activities of Deputies. Today, the activities of Deputies are important in the development of society and the resolution of social issues. They must understand the problems that exist in society in order to fulfill the desires and desires of the people. In our eyes, the close familiarity of the population with the activities of Deputies is due to their significant work activity. That is, to solve the problems of the population on a state scale, there must be a link between the state and The Citizen. It is necessary that this binding necessarily serves as the basis for solving problems in the life of society and the population. To this end, those who answered our next question, "Do you know a local council MP elected from your area", made the following comments. In particular, 54% said " Yes, of course I know", 19% said " No I don't know", while 27% of respondents concluded that " it's hard for me to answer". So, from this it can be concluded that the majority of respondents stated that they know deputies, but it can be concluded that 46% of respondents do not recognize deputies from their answers. In this, we can not even highly assess the activities of Deputies. It may also refer to respondents ' interest in political processes.

3-fig. Do you know a local council MP elected from your area?

In our eyes, there is also a difference in the activities of Deputies. Because, some deputy activities are well known and interested in the population. That is, within the framework of its activities, issues related to the problems of the population are solved. We addressed the deputies with the following question in order to find out what the control functions consist of. To our question "What do you think is reflected in the control function of Deputies", 21% of respondents expressed the opinion that "the quality of services provided is in control", 42% in the "execution of laws", 37% in the "control of the proper expenditure of funds allocated by the state".

4-fig. What do you think the control function of Deputies is reflected in?

Hence, from the answer to this question, one can conclude that deputies have information about the existence of a control function in different areas. It seems to us that today it is advisable to further expand the control function, which is included in the powers of Deputies. In this case, increasing control over the expenditure of funds in its place will cause positive changes in the life of society. In our next question, "Do you have information about the budget Code of the Republic of Uzbekistan" in order to determine whether the population is aware of the legislative acts? we approached with the question: In this case, the highest number of respondents said Yes, while 27% of respondents said "No not have" and the other 24% said "I have a hard time responding".

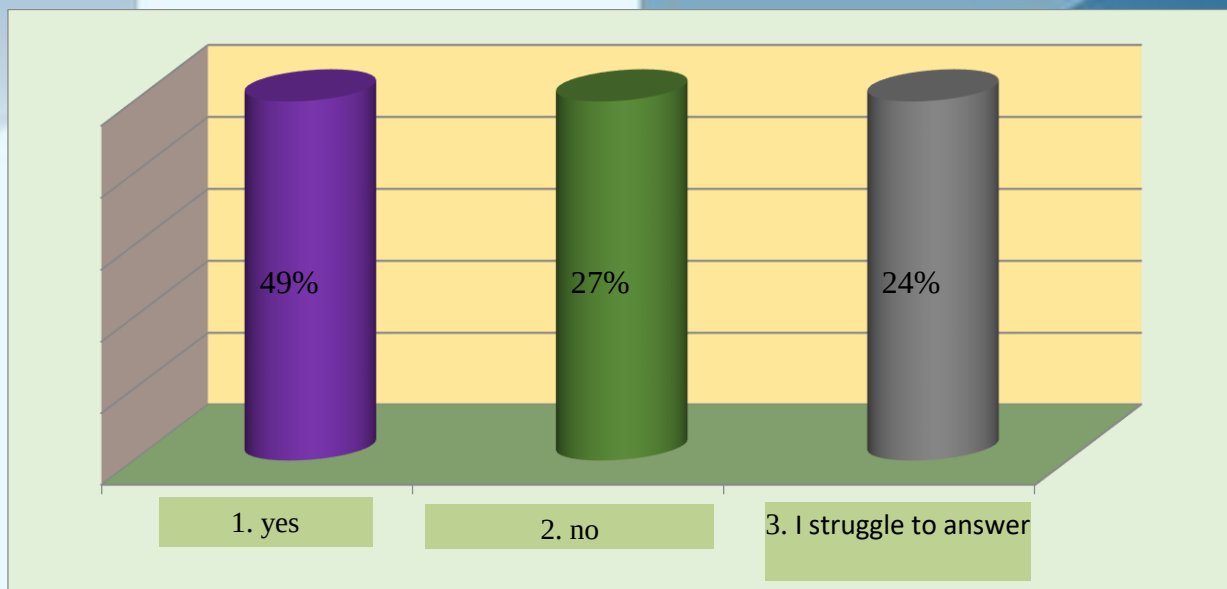

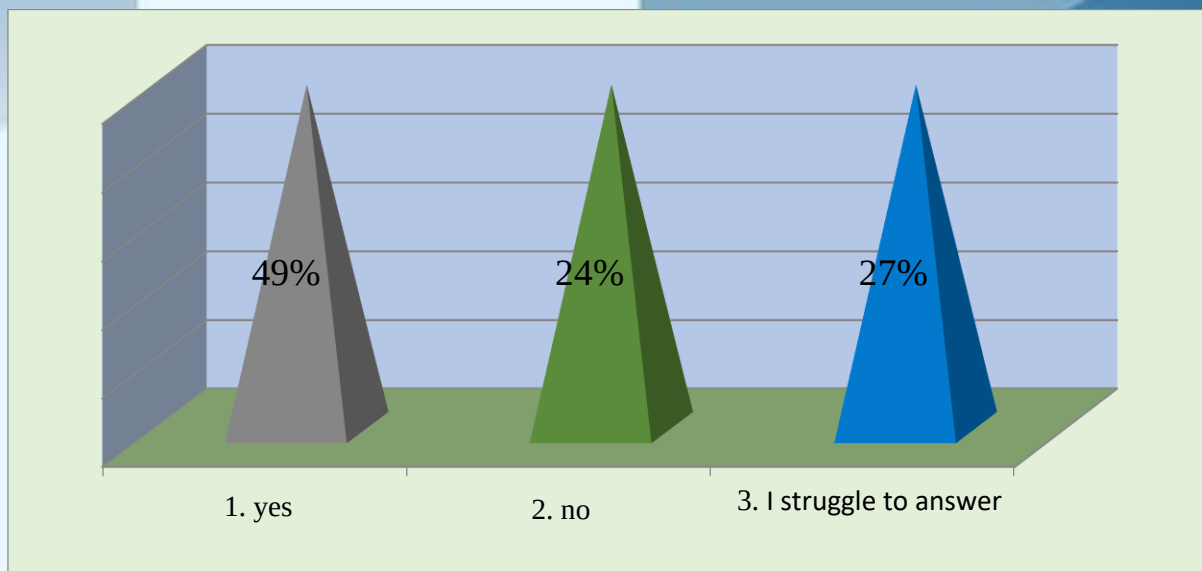

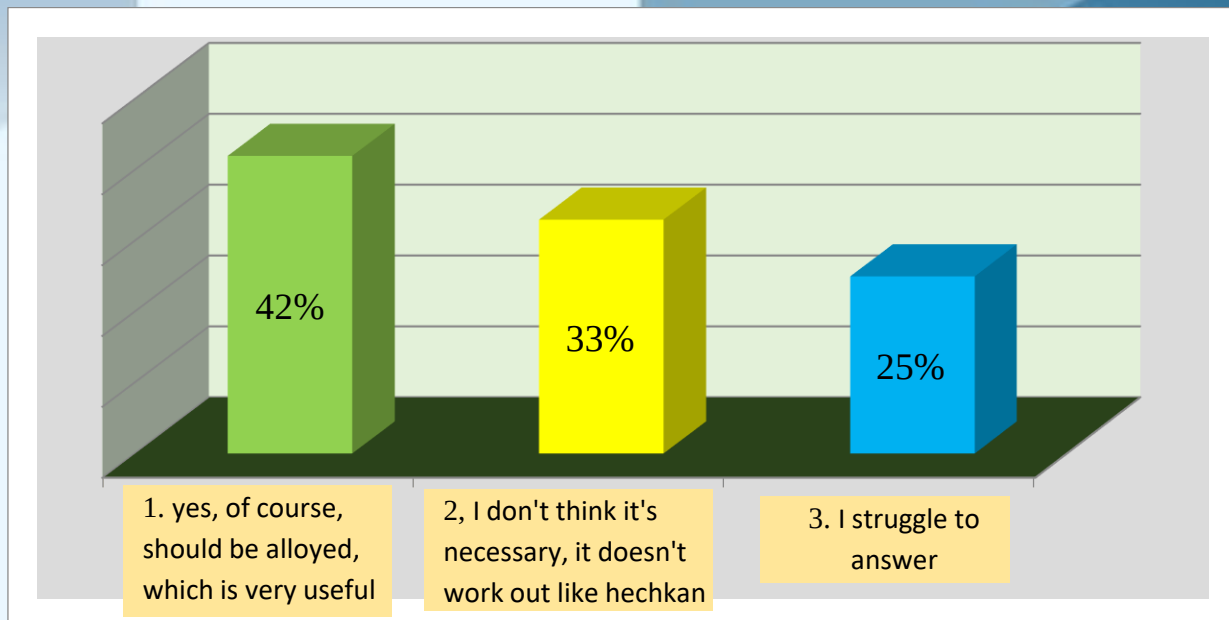

Figure 5. Do you have information about the budget Code of the Republic of Uzbekistan?

From the answers to this question in our opinion, it can be concluded that it is a pity that the majority of our respondents have information about this code, to some extent the population does not know the remaining 4/1 if the legal literacy rate has increased. It also indicates the need to increase the level of legal literacy of the population. In the development of society, the fact that citizens are aware of law, sub-Legislation, use of legal opportunities, fulfill obligations and duties has a positive effect on the social development of society. In particular, on the basis of the high level of legal literacy of citizens of today's developed countries, their direct positive impact on the development of society is manifested. Do you have information about the next "local budget" of our study? when asked, 49% of the respondents agreed that "yes, I have information", 24% that "I don't have no", and 27% that I find it difficult to answer.

6-fig. Do you have information about the local budget?

So, the fact that most respondents have information about the local budget was considered an important fact. Also, this positive conclusion means that there is an interest among the population today in local budgets and their spending. As a sociologist we conclude that this is positive. Our question of what is manifested when the local budget with the state budget differs from each other was answered by 25% of our respondents, since for respondents who chose the option no does not differ, they were asked to answer the next question. We had this share of 61%. Also 25% of our respondents put forward the following points: A group of participants gave the idea that the local budgets - the Corresponding Regional, District, Municipal Monetary Fund of the state budget and, therefore, have its own separate and independent activities; The second group of respondents is provided with financial resources for the socio-economic development of local territories through local budgets; A third group of participants argued that local budgets were the main backbone of the state's policies on social protection of the population in places. So, if 25% of our respondents gave different opinions, these opinions contain the necessary and necessary facts. "Should the councils of people's deputies be made the main link in solving existing problems in the regions"? to our question, 42% of respondents said that "yes, of course it is necessary to convert, it will be very useful", 33% concluded that "I do not have to think, it does not work at all", while the remaining 25% concluded that "I will have a hard time answering.

7-fig. Is it necessary to turn the councils of people's deputies into the main link in solving existing problems in the regions?

We were delighted to find that many in our eyes should definitely be made the main link, which would be very useful. The fact that 33% consider the respondent not necessary can be considered that it is to some extent not able to analyze social problems. "How does deputy control work in the distribution of the local budget"? to our appeal, 53% of participants responded that they "do well", 31% that they "do not", and 16% that they would have difficulty responding. From the answer to this question, which is one of the most important questions of our study, it can be concluded that, of course, it is advisable to establish deputy control. It is possible to raise this problem, and to achieve social well-being, which has become a necessary measure in a social state by including in the decisions and laws of humiliation.

8-fig How does deputy control work in the distribution of the local budget?

On this question, 3 answer options were formed and an analysis was carried out, presented in the form of a table and a diagram. The results of the analysis were summarized in percentage terms, with 1,100 respondents, 54% male (594) and 46% female (506) answer options estimated at 100%. In place of the conclusion, it can be said that in today's period, in the conditions of modern development, it is advisable to strengthen deputy control over the expenditure of local budget funds. Because this form of control exists in developed countries, which serves to improve the lifestyle of the population, to increase the efficiency of the quality of social services seen.
